
Oral interaction

You will participate in a conversation with another candidate. You will be asked to defend a point of view. You will use information and arguments from the documents that you have been studying to discuss, negotiate and reach a compromise according to the role below.

Situation 1

The University Board will meet to discuss the city going cashless. Before the meeting, student representatives will try to agree on a common position.

Role A

You are enthusiastic about the idea of doing without cash in the city and on campus.

Oral interaction

You will participate in a conversation with another candidate. You will be asked to defend a point of view. You will use information and arguments from the documents that you have been studying to discuss, negotiate and reach a compromise according to the role below.

Situation 1

The University Board will meet to discuss the city going cashless. Before the meeting, student representatives will try to agree on a common position.

Role B

You are opposed to the idea of doing without cash in the city and on campus.

Oral interaction

You will participate in a conversation with another candidate. You will be asked to defend a point of view. You will use information and arguments from the documents that you have been studying to discuss, negotiate and reach a compromise according to the role below.

Situation 2

Members of the Students' Representative Council have been invited to a debate on a local radio. A preliminary meeting takes place to discuss which aspects of the project should be given priority during this debate. You have to argue for your choice and reach an agreement.

Role A

You want to focus on the user's experience with the technology.

Oral interaction

You will participate in a conversation with another candidate. You will be asked to defend a point of view. You will use information and arguments from the documents that you have been studying to discuss, negotiate and reach a compromise according to the role below.

Situation 2

Members of the Students' Representative Council have been invited to a debate on a local radio. A preliminary meeting takes place to discuss which aspects of the project should be given priority during this debate. You have to argue for your choice and reach an agreement.

Role B

You want to focus on what going cashless implies for the economy.

Oral interaction

You will participate in a conversation with another candidate. You will be asked to defend a point of view. You will use information and arguments from the documents that you have been studying to discuss, negotiate and reach a compromise according to the role below.

Situation 2

Members of the Students' Representative Council have been invited to a debate on a local radio. A preliminary meeting takes place to discuss which aspects of the project should be given priority during this debate. You have to argue for your choice and reach an agreement.

Role C

You want to focus on what going cashless implies for the individual and the citizen.